Is a freelance designer and creative consultant,

offering his experience and ability to companies looking for design, 3D-modelling, texturing, lighting, and rendering support or consulting either remotely or on site. He's worked on projects for adidas, JD, and TERREX.

2023

Studied German, UX-design, and 3D-Software.

He took time to get a language certificate in German at a B2 level, and earn a certificate of expertise in User Experience design, while self-teaching Blender and other 3D software.

Was a designer at F. G. Meier

on projects for small businesses as well as multinational corporations such as Puma and Adidas in Germany, he led design efforts for numerous projects throughout Europe, notably on art installations at adidas' London flagship.

Moved to Germany and served BBQ

providing spousal support during a corporate relocation and then gaining direct customer service experience in a language immersion environment to speed up integration efforts.

Was a designer at e|design

where he got his start in retail and designed fixtures, signs, furniture and decoration for Macy's, Saks and Saks Off Fifth, etc. He built and delivered and installed as well. He learned a start-up mentality here and still has it.

Apprenticed at c.b. Fisk, inc.

to learn the craft of building pipe-organs. His family trade, he learned about attention to detail, when to build things to last and when not to, and how to enjoy travelling for work.

2009

Graduated the Rhode Island School of Design

With a Bachelor's Degree of Fine Arts in Industrial Design, having held a Merit Scholarship and internships at Bose and Martha Stewart.

Worked in the summers drafting house plans

as an architect's assistant when he was in high school. He drew plans for renovations and new construction on the North Shore of Boston, mainly in a colonial New England style.
